ABSTRACT

To follow the Water Framework Directive (WFD) and sustainable approach toward protection of water environment and human health a development of a river basin management plan (RBMP) is crucial. In the development of the Sava River management plan all riparian countries are already collaborating under the International Commission for the Protection of the Danube River (ICPDR) guidance. To support development of RBMP of the Sava River it is important, that data & information from different discipline with the focus on the water quality state and impacts are harmonised and scientifically evaluated.
